Supporting an Individual Who is Turning 18

The Role of School in Transition

Transition planning under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) must start before a student turns 16.

The student is the creator of the transition plan, in collaboration with the Individualized Education Program (IEP) team which includes:

- ✓ The student
- ✓ The parents of the student
- ✓ At least one regular education teacher if the student is, or may be, participating in the regular education environment
- ✓ Not less than one special education teacher of the child, or where appropriate, not less than one special education provider of the child;
- ✓ A representative of the district who –
 - ✓ Is qualified to provide/supervise special education
 - ✓ Is knowledgeable about the general education curriculum; and the resources of the district
- ✓ An individual who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results.
- ✓ At the discretion of the parent or the district, other individuals who have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child, including related services personnel as appropriate
- ✓ Representative(s) of any agency likely to be responsible for or paying for transition services, with the consent of the parents or the student who has reached the age of majority

Transition services means a coordinated set of activities for a child with a disability that-

- ✓ is designed to be within a results-oriented process
- ✓ is focused on improving academic and functional achievement to facilitate movement from school to post-school activities including
 - ✓ postsecondary education
 - ✓ vocational education
 - ✓ integrated employment (including supported employment)
 - ✓ continuing and adult education
 - ✓ adult services
 - ✓ independent living
 - ✓ community participation

Services are based on individual needs, taking into account strengths, preferences, and interests and include opportunities to develop functional skills for work and community life.

Before the student leaves school, the IEP must also contain, if appropriate, a statement of each public agency and each participating agency's responsibilities (including financial) for the Transition activities.

Age of Majority in Michigan

In Michigan, the law states that individuals become a legal adult when they turn 18 years old. This is when individuals have reached the age of majority.

All rights covered by state and federal legislation automatically transfer to the individual. Students with an individualized education program (IEP) and their parents, on or before their 17th birthday, must be given information regarding this transfer of rights.

Individuals who have reached the age of majority and feel uncomfortable making decisions on their own, may choose an advocate to assist them with their educational transition plans.

Age of Majority in Michigan - Students' Rights

When individuals reach the age of majority, they have the right to make decisions about their special education services, including the right to:

- Attend their IEP meetings.
- Invite anyone they choose to their IEP meeting.
- Consent to any special education evaluations.
- Provide input during the development of their IEP.
- Give signed permission for any personal records being sent to any outside agency under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).
- Disagree with any school records.
- Access dispute resolution options such as IEP facilitation, mediation, state complaints, and due process.

Rights That Transfer at Age of Majority

The following are examples of additional rights that transfer at the age of majority.

The right to:

- Sign a home lease, legal contracts, or finance a mortgage.
- Get a credit card and driver's license.
- Open an individual bank account.
- Marry, vote, and enlist in the armed services.
- Consent to medical treatment.
- Make living arrangements.

Adult Services (short term or lifelong assistance with

Parents of individuals with disabilities often ask how will they will make important decisions when they reach adulthood, and after they are gone.

Guardianship is often considered at this time.

Families often lack information about alternatives that can be used to support individuals to make decisions with support from their family, friends and other allies.

Supported Decision-Making is a tool people can use to make decisions with support from family, friends, and other allies.

It starts with acknowledging that people with disabilities have the right to make their own decisions and receive the support they need and want to understand the situations and choices they make while maintaining their rights.

Supported Decision-making mirrors how all adults make decisions. Autonomy means making one's own choices, learning to solve problems, and experiencing the consequences of making those choices.

Supported Decision Making in Michigan

(Adapted from Michigan Developmental Disabilities Council, January 2020)

Guardianship

Guardianship takes away a person's civil rights.

Having a guardian impacts a person's right to

- Residence and travel
- Choice of friends
- Healthcare and medical decisions
- Access to personal finances
- Right to contract
- Possess a driver's license
- Own property
- Marriage
- Dating and romance

Guardianship Law (MCL 330.1602)

<http://legislature.mi.gov/doc.aspx?mcl-330-1602>

Myths

- Guardianship protects the person.
- Guardianship prevents bad things from happening
- Guardianship ensures good things will happen.

Facts

- When people have guardians, they can still be abused by friends, family members, or strangers
- Just like anyone else, they can be hit by a car, choose the wrong foods, destination, or friends.
- Guardianship doesn't guarantee needed services or supports.

The Reality of Guardianship

Understanding Supported Decision-Making

Supported decision making gives people the help they need and want, to understand the situations and choices they face, so they can make their own decisions

- All adults have the right to make decisions, to direct one's life, to be treated with dignity, and to be respected as an autonomous adult.
- Adults seek advice from family, friends, and experts when making important decisions.
- Many options, other than guardianship, are available to support decision-making.
- Person-Centered Planning and Self Determination guidelines mandate that the choices of adults with disabilities are respected and honored so that they maintain autonomy.
- Many ways to support individuals in making decisions and directing their own lives

Person-Centered Planning strengthens the supports around a person to preserve the person's autonomy and decision-making, thereby rendering guardianship unnecessary.

Person-Centered Planning documents who the person has authorized to assist them in making life decisions

Self-direction is a way for people with disabilities to hire and manage providers of publicly funded services and supports with the help and assistance they need.

Person Centered Planning and Self-Determination

Supported Decision-Making

Safeguards to Support Decision-Making Authority and Civil Rights Protections

- Guardianship restricts a person's freedom to make decisions. It should be considered only as a last resort when no alternatives are available.
- Guardianship should be reviewed regularly to confirm its continued necessity.
- Family members should receive information about alternatives to guardianship to support people with disabilities to make decisions about health care, money, education, housing, relationships, or other areas.
- A court should only grant a guardianship after a full and fair court hearing that includes the person with a disability.
- Everyone's decision-making ability should be supported to the maximum extent possible.

Families, Friends and Allies (or Circle of Support)

- provide more protection for a person than guardianship can provide through their guidance, counsel and expertise
- negate the need for evaluation of an individual's competence
- enable multiple people to help a person rather than a single guardian

Formal Systems of support

- Young adults in school, and their families, can use the IEP planning process to support autonomy, decision-making, and self-determination
- Support and education are provided by a variety of advocacy organizations
- Community Mental Health programs must support and implement the principles and practices of Self-Determination

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) Basics

SSI makes monthly payments to meet basic needs for food, clothing, and shelter (rent, utilities, etc.). Base monthly rate depends on your living arrangement and countable income.

If individuals need assistance managing their SSI benefits, a representative payee (usually a parent), can be assigned to help the individual.

SSI is a federal program funded by general tax revenues (not Social Security taxes), run by the Social Security Administration (SSA).

SSI makes monthly payments to people who have low income and few resources and are

- Age 65 or older
- Blind
- Disabled (based on Disability Determination Services criteria)

Individuals do not need to have worked in the past to get SSI.

If eligible for SSI, also eligible for Medicaid

Medicaid - Disabled Adult Children (DAC)

Also called Childhood Disability Beneficiaries-CDB's

Medicaid is available to a person receiving Disabled Adult Child (DAC) Retirement Survivor Disability Insurance (RSDI) benefits if the individual

- Received SSI and became ineligible due to a change in parents' status (parent retired, parent became disabled, or parent passed away) AND
- Is receiving RSDI AND
- Would be eligible for SSI without such SSDI benefits

An individual might receive DAC RSDI, but not DAC Medicaid, but will not receive DAC Medicaid without receiving DAC RSDI.

- Generally, individuals should wait until after their 18th birthday to apply for SSI and Medicaid.
- Individuals should apply for SSI and Medicaid as soon as they turn 18. The process takes a while and the purpose of applying early is to be prepared for the future.
- Be honest when providing disability information for the disability determination.
- The amount of SSI that an individual receives depends on whose income/resources in the household are being considered. Individuals 18 and older are considered a household of 1 if they are paying their fair share of expenses (food, shelter), even if they live with family or other people.
- Each system has their own eligibility criteria. Understand the differences.
- If an individual is denied SSI appeal the decision.

Centered
Practices

Person
Centered
Planning

Person

Planning
Process

Person Centered Planning (PCP)

Person-Centered Planning is required by state law-part of the Mental Health Code

“Person-Centered Planning (PCP) means a process for planning and supporting an individual receiving services that builds on the individual’s capacity to engage in activities that promote community life and that honors the person’s preferences, choices and abilities”.

Michigan Compiled Laws MCL 330.1700(g)

PCP is a way for people receiving supports and services from the mental health system to set goals that they want to achieve and develop a plan to accomplish them.

The PCP process leads to the development of an Individual Plan of Service (IPOS)

Values and principals That Guide the PCP Process

Person-Centered Planning is an individualized process designed to respond to the unique needs and desires of each person.

Every person is presumed competent to direct the planning process, achieve goals and outcomes, and build a meaningful life in the community. PCP should not be constrained by any preconceived limits on the person's ability to make choices.

Every person has strengths, can express preferences, and can make choices. The person-centered planning approach identifies the person's strengths, goals, choices, medical and support needs and desired outcomes. The person's choices and preferences are honored.

Choices could include:

- Family and friends involved in his or her life and PCP process
- housing
- Employment
- Culture
- Social activities and recreation
- Vocational training
- Relationships and friendships
- Transportation

Values and Principals That Guide the PCP Process, Cont'd

The person's choices are implemented unless there is a documented health and safety reason that they cannot be implemented. In that situation, the PCP process should include strategies to support the person to implement their choices or preferences over time.

Every person contributes to his or her community and has the right to choose how supports and services enable him or her to meaningfully participate and contribute to his or her community.

Through the PCP process, a person maximizes independence, creates connections, and works towards achieving his or her chosen outcomes.

A person's cultural background is recognized and valued in the PCP process. Cultural background may include language, religion, values, beliefs, customs, dietary choices and other things chosen by the person. Linguistic needs, including American Sign Language (ASL) interpretation, are also recognized, valued and accommodated.

The Individual Plan of Service is developed through the person-centered planning process.

Life goals are identified by the individual and medically necessary services and supports are identified and documented in the IPOS to help work toward and reach goals.

PCP process is used at least annually to update the Individual Plan of Service. IPOS should be updated when needs or choices change.

Assessments may be used to inform the PCP process but is not a substitute for the process. Together, assessments and the PCP process are used to identify goals, risks, needs and authorize services.

PCP Individual Plan of Service (IPOS)

The IPOS documents what services the mental health system will be providing and paying for:

Type of service (what service is needed?)

Amount of service
(how much of the service is needed?)

Duration of service
(how long should the service be provided?)

No assessment scale or tool should be utilized to set a dollar figure or budget that limits the person-centered planning process

REMINDER:

Services may not be denied based solely on preset limits of the cost, amount, scope, and duration of services. Determination of the need for services is made on an individualized basis.

PCP – IPOS

Community Mental Health – Medicaid Covered Services

These are some commonly used Medicaid covered services-

- o Supports Coordination: Someone to help develop the Person-Centered Plan and IPOS and to link and coordinate services and supports.
- o Respite Services: Intermittent, short-term staffing to provide a break to an unpaid caregiver.
- o Community Living Supports (direct care workers/staff): Scheduled staff support to help individuals access and participate in their communities, work toward becoming more independent and assist them in being productive.
- o Skill Building Services: Assistance to engage in meaningful activities such as recreation, work or volunteering.
- o Supported/Integrated Employment Services: Provides job development as well as initial and ongoing supports at work to maintain employment in an integrated setting. (Employment outside of school hours-after school, evenings, weekends, school breaks)
 - o Medicaid will not pay for this service during school hours
- o Assistive Technology: Adaptations to vehicles, communication devices, items necessary to live independently.
- o Environmental Modifications: Physical adaptations to the home to make it accessible and safe.

Self Determination – Policy

Michigan Department of Health and Human Services Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities Administration

Self Determination is the value that people served by the public mental health system must be supported to have a meaningful life in the community.

The components of a meaningful life include:

- work or volunteer activities that are chosen by and meaningful to person,
- reciprocal relationships with other people in the community, and
- daily activities that are chosen by the individual and support the individual to connect with others and contribute to his or her community.

With arrangements that support self-determination, individuals have control over an individual budget for their mental health services and supports to live the lives they want in the community.

Self-Determination Policy and Practice Guideline

https://www.michigan.gov/-/media/Project/Websites/mdhhs/Folder3/Folder41/Folder2/Folder141/Folder1/Folder241/Self_Determination_Policy_and_Practice_Guideline_4-7-1.pdf?rev=d19a24943f0d4bc69c768898fa6eb714

Self Determination – Policy, Cont'd

Person-centered planning (PCP) is a central element of self-determination. PCP is the crucial medium for expressing and transmitting personal needs, wishes, goals and aspirations. As the PCP process unfolds, the appropriate mix of paid/non-paid services and supports to assist the individual in realizing/achieving these personally defined goals and aspirations are identified.

The principles of self-determination recognize the rights of people supported by the mental health system to have a life with freedom, and to access and direct needed supports that assist in the pursuit of their life, with responsible citizenship. These supports function best when they build upon natural community experiences and opportunities.

The person determines and manages needed supports in close association with chosen friends, family, neighbors, and co-workers as a part of an ordinary community life.

Supporting an Individual Who is Turning 18

Continue an open line of communication with the individual. Assume competence!

Talk about the transfer of rights when an individual turns 18. Explain the individual's rights and encourage their active role in decision-making at their IEP meetings.

Discuss decision-making options and identify family, friends, and allies who can support the individual to make their own decisions, with support that is needed.

Continue open conversations with the individual about their wishes for the future:
