Procedural Safeguards

What Are Procedural Safeguards?

Their purpose is to guard your rights and ensure that the Early On process happens as it is supposed to for you and your child in your native language. Your rights and the related procedural safeguards begin with your first contact with Early On and continue throughout the entire time you are involved.

Procedural safeguards include:

- Early Intervention Records and Confidentiality of Information
- Parental Consent
- Surrogate Parents
- Prior Written Notice
- Problem Solving & Dispute Resolution

Parent Rights

When Do Our Rights Apply?

Your rights and the related procedural safeguards begin with your first contact with Early On and continue throughout the entire time you are involved. Your rights apply to any paperwork and any time Early On interacts with you and your child.

Why Is It Important and How Do We Learn About Our Rights?

By learning about your rights, you and the Early On system can make sure that you are fully informed and involved in every aspect of Early On. Knowing your rights will support you in making decisions about your child's participation. Your rights will be explained to you, and you will be given the information in this booklet. You and your service coordinator will review these rights, and you will be able to ask questions

IFSP Outcomes

Criteria: Identify a reasonable frequency, duration, or rate for the new skill or behavior so that the family and other team members can know when the outcome is met. It should also state over what amount of time the new skill or behavior will be demonstrated in order to help decide if the outcome has been achieved.

Procedures: Identify the procedures or methods that will be used to evaluate progress towards achieving the outcome. Examples of procedures may include, but are not limited to, documented observation, parent report, use of a rating scale or an assessment tool.

Time frame: If possible, use a special occasion or life event such as a birthday, holiday or a real-life point in time such as “when grandma visits this summer” or “by the time school starts” this fall (for the siblings) as the timeline on an IFSP outcome statement.

Michigan's Child Outcomes

1

Gaining positive social emotional skills, including social relationships. This outcome measures how children interact and play with their family, other adults, and other children.

2

Learning and using new knowledge and skills. This outcome measures how children learn and use basic language and communication skills such as counting and problem-solving that will prepare them to be successful in kindergarten.

3

Using appropriate behaviors to meet their needs. This outcome measures how children gradually become more independent by learning how to move from place to place, feed themselves, and take care of basic needs.
