All students are required to follow the school rules and be treated fairly. Students who receive special education services have additional protections under state and federal laws that guarantee their right to receive a free appropriate public education.

Join this webinar to learn more about the laws and rules that govern school discipline, as well as the rights and protections of students with disabilities.

- The 7 Factors that must be considered before any suspension or expulsion of a student
- Shortened school days, suspensions, expulsions, and the Manifestation Determination Review (MDR) process
- Change of placement and appealing discipline decisions
- Discipline protections for students not yet eligible for special education services

Who should attend?

Families with a child/youth who receive or may be eligible to receive special education services, school staff, community members.
