Review Self-Confidence

Self-confidence (or self-efficacy)
means believing in y_____!

- yourself

Self-Advocacy

Being a Self-Advocate

Means YOU...

- Know what you want
- Have more control of you
- Make life decisions that are best for you
- Speak-up for yourself
- Understand your disability, strengths, and challenges
- Do what you say you will do (follow through on commitments)
- Learn from your mistakes

Self-Advocacy means becoming more and more independent!

Self-Advocacy

Self-Advocacy IS ✓

- ✓ A civil rights law for people with disabilities
- ✓ Speaking up for yourself
- ✓ Knowing your strengths and challenges
- ✓ Being part of your community
- ✓ Making decisions
- ✓ Learning from mistakes
- ✓ Something we all can do
- ✓ Managing emotions

Self-Advocacy IS NOT ✗

- ✗ A program or fad
- ✗ Complaining or being negative
- ✗ Criticizing or putting yourself down
- ✗ Staying home and not trying new things
- ✗ Letting others make most of your decisions
- ✗ Not taking chances and repeating mistakes
- ✗ Only for people with disabilities
- ✗ Being angry

Self-Advocacy

What self-advocates are saying...

As you watch the video, think about 1 thing that is meaningful to YOU.

Disability Rights

Civil Rights Law: Americans with Disability Act (ADA)

- Do NOT discriminate!
 - Treating people with and without disabilities the same
- Not legal to not treat people the same (discriminate) because of their disability
- In employment, public places, transportation, and programs offered by the government

Disability Rights and Education

Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)

- Part of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act
- Works with ADA for children and adults with disabilities to protect their equal treatment and inclusion in education
- Individualized Education Program (IEP) is your education plan to meet your own needs and make sure you get the supports and services you require in your education.
 - You get accommodations or modifications so you can be included as much as possible with your peers at school without disabilities.

Increasing your self-advocacy can make you more self-confident and independent

Disclosure

- Letting someone know you have a disability
- YOU decide if, when, how much to tell
- Disclosing helps at work and school in getting accommodations
- May want to think about this before you interview, start a job, or start an educational program after high school

Home

- Deciding when and what to eat
- Making your own meals
- Managing and taking medications
- Staying alone
- Budgeting, having a bank account, using an ATM card, checking account balances
- Getting organized and managing your time

School

Speaking up at school

- Knowing and asking for accommodations needed (checklists, visuals, longer time on tests)
- Asking for help on assignments
- Managing study time (using resource class to study)
- Talking to teachers about concerns
- Taking part in or leading your IEP
- Helping plan your transition out of high school

Community

Speaking up for yourself and getting help in the community

- Where to live and who to live with
- Making medical and other appointments
- Talking about your needs with a doctor
- Handling money and using an ATM card
- Making social and recreational choices
- Staying safe
- Driving/getting transportation

Work

Being able to speak up for yourself and knowing who can help you at work...

- Requesting accommodations (ex: a quiet setting)
- When and what to disclose about anything that is hard for you
- Asking your supervisor or co-workers to help with questions you have
- Understanding feedback and what you can improve on your job

Self-Advocacy and Your SPIN and IEP

Which one shows self-advocacy?

- A. Letting your employer know you have a disability if you start having problems at work
- B. Not asking your teacher for help when you lose your assignment

(Put A or B in chat!)

Self-Regulation

Means...

- Knowing my own thoughts, emotions, and behavior
- Being aware of how I feel and taking action to be more calm, happy, and positive if I am upset or anxious Involves...

- Noticing when you are getting upset, angry, stressed out, anxious, frustrated
- Understanding what will happen if you act in certain ways (consequences)
- Trying to be more positive than negative
- Managing how you act and respond

Why it is Important

Self-regulation helps us...

- Focus and be less distracted
- Learn
- Keep jobs
- Reduce anxiety and stress
- Become more independent

If we have a Hard Time

- Overreact to things that happen
- Have emotional outbursts (really emotional)
- Experience mood swings (being moody)
- Hard to get rid of negative feelings or emotions
- Depend more on others

How do I feel?

Zones of Regulation®

None of the zones are good or bad, this is just a way to recognize our feelings and figuring out ways to change zones

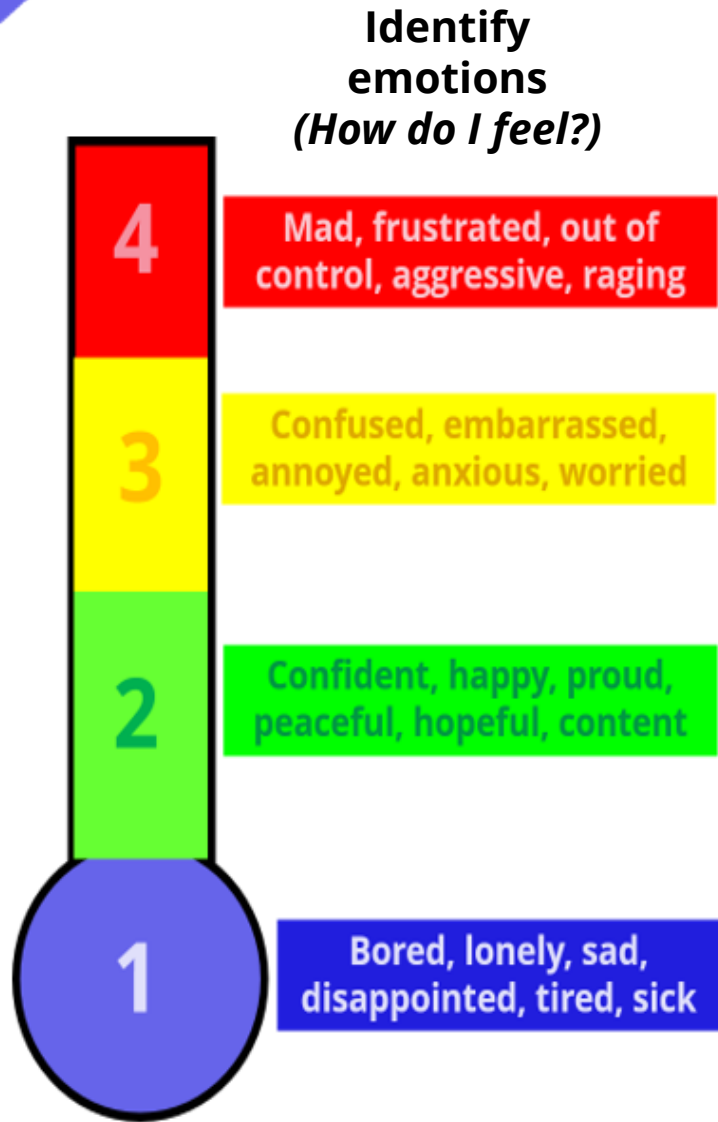

Adapted from the Zones of Regulation®

We can Change our Zones

- Identify emotions: how do I feel?
- Check behavior: what am I doing?
- Regulate emotions: what can I do about it?

Self-Regulation-Example-1

Check behavior

Regulate Emotions

How Do I Act?	What Can I Do About It?
Shouting, arguing, stomping, shutting down, withdrawing	Exercise, count to 10, read a book, listen to music, take a nap
Anxious, pacing, withdrawing, clingy, breathing fast, sweating, tired, not focused, negative self-talk	Ask for help, take a break, positive self-talk, think about your happy place
Smiling, engaged, paying attention, laughing	Smile, practice appreciation, work on your goals, help someone else, listen, write or journal about what you are good at or what you have been successful doing
Crying, not engaged, sleeping, withdrawn, frowning, no energy	Talk to your family or friends, do something you enjoy, positive self-talk, stretch or exercise, take a walk

What works for YOU—it might be different than others

Taking deep breaths	Counting to 20	Asking for help	Talking to a friend

Thinking of a compromise	Walking away	Letting it go	Thinking of something that makes the learner happy
