Michigan Alliance for Families invites you to learn more about Parent Advisory Committees (PAC) and the important role they play connecting families across the state. We know PACs look different across Michigan. There are requirements are defined in our state rules. Once we learn about PACs, we will dive into data - what it is, where to find it, and why it is so important.

Together we will explore:

- Parent Advisory Committee requirements
- Committee set up
- Intermediate School District Plans
- Importance of data
- Understanding special education data

Who should attend?

Who should attend? Students with disabilities and their families, and members of the community who support these students.
